

APA Format Literature Review Title Page: Complete Guide with Examples

Quick Answer:

- An APA literature review title page includes the paper title, author name, affiliation, course, instructor, and date.
- It follows strict formatting rules: centered text, double spacing, and proper capitalization.
- Student and professional papers have slightly different title page requirements.
- Running head is optional for student papers but required for professional ones.
- The title should be concise, informative, and reflect the scope of the literature review.
- Margins must be 1 inch on all sides with a standard font like 12pt Times New Roman.

SERP Analysis: What Top-Ranking Articles Cover

Most high-ranking pages on “APA format literature review title page” follow a similar structure and intent. They are primarily instructional guides designed for students who need to format academic papers correctly.

Common Subheadings

- What is an APA title page
- APA 7th edition title page format
- Student vs professional title page
- Example of APA title page
- Formatting rules (font, spacing, margins)
- Running head explanation

Questions Typically Covered

- What goes on a title page?
- Do I need a running head?
- How do I format my title?
- What’s the difference between APA 6 and APA 7?

Content Format

The dominant format is step-by-step instructional guides combined with examples. Some use checklists or templates. However, most lack depth in explaining WHY formatting rules exist or how mistakes impact grading.

Content Gaps

- Limited explanation of decision-making (what matters most vs optional elements)
- Little guidance on adapting title pages for different academic contexts
- Few real-world mistakes or anti-patterns

- Minimal practical editing tips

SEO Structure and Keyword Clustering

Primary Keyword

APA format literature review title page

Secondary Keywords

- APA title page format
- APA 7th edition title page example
- literature review APA format
- APA student title page
- APA paper title page rules

What Is an APA Format Literature Review Title Page?

An APA format literature review title page is the first page of your academic paper. It provides essential identifying information about your work and ensures consistency across academic writing.

Unlike general essays, literature reviews often involve more complex titles because they summarize and analyze multiple sources. This makes correct formatting even more important.

The title page serves three main purposes:

- Identifies the author and institution
- Provides context for the paper
- Ensures academic standardization

APA Title Page Format (7th Edition)

Basic Structure

Element	Description
Title	Centered, bold, in title case
Author Name	Your full name
Institution	University or organization
Course	Course name and code
Instructor	Professor's name
Date	Submission date

Formatting Rules

- Double spacing throughout
- 1-inch margins
- Readable font (Times New Roman, 12pt)
- Center alignment

Student vs Professional Title Page

Student Version

- No running head required
- Includes course and instructor details

Professional Version

- Requires running head
- Includes author note

REAL VALUE BLOCK: How APA Title Pages Actually Work

Key Concept

The APA title page is not just formatting—it's about clarity, hierarchy, and standardization. Each element serves a functional purpose.

How the System Works

Academic formatting systems like APA are designed to make research easily scannable. The title page acts as metadata for your paper.

Decision Factors

- Type of paper (student vs professional)
- Instructor requirements
- Publication standards

Common Mistakes

- Incorrect capitalization
- Missing elements
- Improper spacing
- Overly long titles

What Actually Matters

1. Correct structure
2. Consistency
3. Clarity of title
4. Accurate information

Example of an APA Literature Review Title Page

Example:

The Impact of Social Media on Academic Performance

John Smith

University of Example

PSY 101: Introduction to Psychology

Dr. Jane Doe

April 26, 2026

What Other Guides Don't Tell You

- Your title influences first impressions significantly
- Overly complex titles reduce readability
- Consistency matters more than perfection
- Minor formatting errors can impact grades

Practical Tips for Perfect Formatting

- Use templates to avoid errors
- Double-check spacing and alignment
- Keep titles under 15 words
- Always follow instructor guidelines first

Common Mistakes and Anti-Patterns

- Using all caps in title
- Adding unnecessary graphics
- Ignoring APA updates
- Mixing formatting styles

Need help formatting your APA title page or entire literature review?

Get expert assistance and ensure your paper meets academic standards:

Request professional writing help here

Buyer Guide: How to Get Help with APA Formatting

When dealing with APA formatting, many students struggle not because the rules are difficult, but because they are strict and detailed. Even small inconsistencies can lead to grade deductions, especially in literature reviews where structure and presentation matter as much as content.

This is why external help becomes a practical option. However, choosing the right type of assistance requires understanding what actually matters.

Types of Help Available

- Formatting-only services
- Full writing services
- Editing and proofreading
- Templates and tools

What to Look For

The most important factor is accuracy. APA formatting is precise, so any service you choose should demonstrate a clear understanding of the latest edition.

- Experience with academic writing
- Knowledge of APA 7th edition
- Ability to follow instructions
- Transparent pricing

When You Should Consider Help

- Tight deadlines
- Complex literature reviews
- Unfamiliarity with APA rules
- Need for high grades

Common Pitfalls

- Choosing based on price alone
- Ignoring reviews
- Not providing clear instructions

If you want a reliable starting point, you can submit your request here:

Get a quote for academic assistance

FAQ

1. What is included in an APA literature review title page?

An APA literature review title page includes the title, author name, institutional affiliation, course details, instructor name, and submission date. Each element must be properly formatted and centered. The purpose is to provide clear identification and ensure consistency across academic documents.

2. Do I need a running head in APA 7th edition?

For student papers, a running head is not required. However, for professional papers intended for publication, it is mandatory. Always check your instructor's requirements, as some may still request it.

3. How long should my title be?

Your title should be concise but descriptive. Ideally, it should not exceed 12–15 words. It must clearly reflect the topic of your literature review without unnecessary complexity.

4. What font should I use?

APA allows several fonts, but the most common is Times New Roman, 12pt. Other acceptable options include Arial and Calibri. Consistency throughout the document is essential.

5. Can I use a template?

Yes, templates are highly recommended. They reduce formatting errors and save time. However, always verify that the template follows APA 7th edition guidelines.

6. What are the most common mistakes?

The most common mistakes include incorrect spacing, missing elements, improper capitalization, and outdated formatting. These errors may seem minor but can significantly affect your grade.

7. Is the title page different for literature reviews?

The structure remains the same, but literature review titles tend to be more descriptive. They often include the scope, variables, or focus of the review, making clarity even more important.